

THE CENTENNIAL.

A GORGEOUS NAVAL PAGEANT IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

The Biggest Civic Parade Ever Witnessed in This or Any Other Country—The Military Demonstration Will Probably Take Place, Despite the Action of the W. L. I.

New York, April 19.—The United States Navy will appear prominently in the Centennial celebration. Secretary Tracy has decided that all the available warships shall participate in the great naval review, which will be a leading feature. Commander F. M. Ramsey, commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard, received orders yesterday from the Navy Department directing him to communicate with the Committee on the Navy. David B. Porter, Admiral of the Navy, will be the commander-in-chief afloat and Rear Admiral James E. Jouett will be the chief of staff. The warships which are expected to escort the President and party to this port are the Dispatch, Boston, Atlanta, Chicago, Yorktown and Vesuvius. The Dispatch is the government steam yacht and is now at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Lieut. W. S. Cowles, her commander, will take his vessel within a mile and a half of Elizabethport, where she will be boarded by the President and party. The steel cruiser Boston is in commission at the naval station and the cruiser Chicago will receive a new complement of officers and crew during this week. The Atlanta has been ordered to this port in time to fall in line.

A crew of sailors and firemen left the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday for Philadelphia, where they will join the new gunboat Yorktown. The dynamite cruiser Vesuvius is to be brought here at the same time. If the Vesuvius can be got in readiness the entire new navy of the Atlantic coast will be represented. It is also expected that the corvette Kearsarge will be ordered from Norfolk. The Navy Yard tugs Catalpa and Nina and a number of steam launches and cutters will join the warships in the naval procession.

The ships will be dressed with flags, streamers and pennants, and national salutes will be fired from each of the warships. Commander Ramsey will also appoint an officer of high rank to command the battalions of marines and sailors who will participate in the shore parade. The official naval programme will not be finished for some days yet.

The Committee on Organization of the Marine Parade for the Centennial week met yesterday at Pier No. 36, North River, to further the arrangements. Three hundred vessels have already been secured for the demonstration.

The decision of the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, S. C., to parade independently because its application to act as an escort to President Harrison had been declined by the Army Committee was considered yesterday by the General Committee. Col. Cruger wrote to Major Gilchrist, Commander of the Washington Light Infantry, saying that the Army Committee had no desire to treat that organization disrespectfully. The arrangements were for the President, after the literary exercises at the Sub-Treasury, to be driven rapidly to the grand stand, at Worth's Monument, in order to be ready to review the troops, and therefore it would be out of the question for the President to have an escort. If the President had been assigned to a place in the marching column an escort might have been accepted for him. It is thought that this will appease the Charleston gentlemen. A communication was received from the Governor's Foot Guard, of Hartford, Conn., saying that although that organization had fought in the Revolution and had on two occasions acted as an escort to Washington, it had no cause to complain at not being selected as an escort to President Harrison in view of the arrangements made for the parade.

General Daniel Butterfield, Chief Marshal of the Centennial parade, estimates that over fifty thousand people, exclusive of those employed on the floats, will participate in the civic parade from Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Virginia. The Alexandria Fire Company of Alexandria, Virginia, of which Washington in his young days was a member, will be in line.

A meeting of the Executive Committees of the different organizations of business men, without regard to politics, was held at the office of Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, No. 66 White street, yesterday afternoon, with a view to enlisting the several organizations in the grand civic parade May 1. The meeting was called jointly by Joseph J. O'Donoghue, President of the Business Men's Democratic Conference Committee, and W. S. Strong, President of the Business Men's Republican Association. The outcome of the meeting will probably be that a larger procession of business men than paraded under either Cleveland or Harrison banners last November will be found in the civic procession. They will march in one division, under Col. C. B. Mitchell, who was Marshal of the Republican parade last year.

The Retail Grocers' Association has decided to turn out in the parade, and the members have invited their clerks to join with them. It is estimated that at least one thousand grocers will be in line.

The officers of the Brooklyn Volksschule Association have invited all the German societies in Kings County to co-operate in making the Brooklyn end of the celebration a success.

The publication of the names of the descendants of the Washington family who have been especially invited to come to the show has produced a grander "kick" than any that has preceded it. The committee is deluged with letters from every part of the Union from Washington's relatives wanting recognition. The members of the committee say that they now understand better than they ever did before why Washington was called "The Father of His Country."

A letter has been received calling attention to an old colored man, Uncle John Harrison, 114 years of age, who is still living a little above Jamestown Island, on the James River, Virginia, who waited on Washington when he visited at the Colonel William Allen estate while President.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 17.—Permission to enter the State of New York, armed and equipped, is granted all troops of other States desiring to participate in the centennial celebration of the inauguration of the first President of the United States at New York City on the 30th inst., by order of the Adjutant General.

Some Facts About the Great Military Demonstration.

The list of National Guard organizations which have signified their intention of taking part in the centennial celebration, comprises State troops from all over the Union. The Southern militia especially will be here in force, coming from Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Virginia. Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Vermont will send their entire National Guard, and the whole National Guard of this State will be there.

The military procession, therefore, will afford the observers an opportunity of viewing the best militia of many States, for the troops from a distance will, of course, be the crack organizations, and they are making every effort to come with full ranks and in their finest shape. Baltimore will send its famous Fifth Regiment, which in many respects is without a superior in the Union. It holds its own in drill and discipline with our Seventh, and is recruited from the ranks of the very best young men in Baltimore.

The Fourth Regiment of Connecticut will present a fine appearance, and among other notable organizations in line will be the Fifth Regiment and the Cadet Corps of Boston, the Washington Light Infantry of Charleston, and the most highly drilled troops in the Southern States generally. The National Guard of Vermont is very numerous, considering the population of the State, and it is maintained in an admirable degree of efficiency. The troops of Pennsylvania are coming to the number of nearly 9,000. Ohio will send between 3,000 and 4,000, and even from faraway Michigan, Missouri and Kansas, militia will come to join in the grand procession. From many States the committee have not yet heard definitely, but it is probable that before the day of the celebration the number of troops to come from a distance will be much increased. The brilliancy of the parade will also be enhanced by the appearance of the Governors with their military staffs.

Even if the numbers in line do not reach 50,000, they will not be far from that total when the regular troops and the military and naval cadets are counted in. It will therefore be the greatest military procession ever seen here, and because of its composition it will be by all odds the most interesting. There will also come from every State large bodies of citizens who will increase the enthusiasm of the occasion, and from Brooklyn and the New Jersey and Connecticut towns people will pour into New York by the hundred thousands.

The truth is, the proportions of the celebration have far outgrown the early estimates, and for that reason the committee were for a time somewhat overwhelmed by the magnitude of the work they had undertaken. It has increased on their hands daily. They have been astonished at the interest awakened in all parts of the Union, and only recently have the newspapers begun to get anything like an adequate conception of what the three days' festival is going to be.

The extension of the time covered by the excursion tickets on the railroads will, of course, tend to increase greatly the crowd of visitors from remote places, for the twelve days' allowance is enough to justify so long a journey, and the opening of May is usually a favorable time for a visit to New York. If the weather is fair, the town will be appearing at its best, and both those who march and those who are spectators merely will be able to enjoy themselves the more, because of the temperate spring air. In the parks the grass will be green and the sweetest and loveliest verdure of the year will be all around.

Nor need anybody hesitate to come because of fear that accommodations will be lacking. New York is a great place, and, hard by, Brooklyn, Coney Island, Jersey City, Hoboken and Newark will offer room enough for any overflow. Everybody will have a bed to sleep in, no matter if a million come.—New York Sun.

BOLD BANK ROBBERS.

Nearly Successful Attempt to Rob a Minneapolis Bank During Business Hours.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 16.—A bold and nearly successful attempt was made at noon to-day to rob the State Bank. Two men went into the bank when only two employees were present. One covered the employees with a revolver, while the other vaulted over the railing and thrust about $800 on the teller's table into a valise. At this moment a depositor entered, and this forced the uncovering of the assistant cashier, who rushed to the safe to get his revolver. The robber threw the valise to his accomplice, who dashed into the President's room by mistake. He then jumped through a window and fled. Meanwhile the other man had also escaped. There was a wild rush, in which three or four policemen joined, and finally the two robbers were caught and lodged in jail. The names of the men are given as James Henry and Fred Douglas.

Mail Facilities for Oklahoma.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Postoffice Department officials are making active preparations for the immediate opening of two postoffices in Oklahoma—one at Muskogee, Okla., and the other at Guthrie, where the United States Land Office are to be established. Several Postoffice Inspectors are now on the ground, examining proposed mail routes into the country and between all important points. For the present all mail will enter the Territory from the North over the adopted railroads to its Southern terminus, and from there it will be carried forward by government contractors over regularly established routes.

Drowned Himself in Tiger River.

UNION, S. C., April 18.—[Special to the Register.]—Jasper Lawson, a white man, aged 40 years, committed suicide yesterday by drowning himself in Tiger River, about eight miles from this place. No cause can be given for the suicide. He was a well-to-do farmer and was apparently perfectly sane.

Judge Munro is seriously ill at his home here, and fears are entertained for his recovery.

Want to Interest the Farmers.

The Southern Manufacturers' Association will meet at Augusta, Ga., on May 1, 1899, and President Hickman has requested the South Carolina Department of Agriculture to extend an invitation to the Farmers' Alliance and State Granges to attend that meeting and discuss the cotton bagging question with the manufacturers. It is expected that the Georgia Alliance will be well represented. The Department of Agriculture has forwarded the invitations to Gen. Stackhouse and Mr. Thompson, and urged these officers to have their organizations represented.

—B. W. Nance of Newberry has been appointed postal clerk to take his old run between Augusta and Spartanburg.

THE GRAND LODGE, KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

A Great Deal of Business Transacted in a Short Space of Time—The Present Grand Lodge Apparently Unfavorable to Changes—Officers Elected and Committees Appointed.

(From the Columbia Daily Register.) It may perhaps be accepted as emphatic evidence of the mental stamina, or, possibly, the physical capacity, of the members of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Honor, that though kept up so late on the previous night by the hospitable entertainment of their Columbia brethren, they were all on hand at the early hour of 9 o'clock yesterday morning when the session of the Grand Lodge was resumed.

Considerable discussion was evoked by a motion made to reduce the present number of the officers of the Grand Lodge and committeemen, by making four of the ten positions now elective appointive. The motion was tabled.

The finance committee reported that they had examined the books and accounts of the treasurer and found them correct. The report was adopted.

A resolution was offered and adopted, offering $20 to the subordinate lodge reporting the largest increase of membership in the next year, and $10 to the lodge reporting the largest per centage of increase on its present membership. The reports to be made and the prizes awarded at the next session of the Grand Lodge.

The committee on appeals made no report, or no appeals were presented to the Grand Lodge.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was next gone into, and resulted as follows:

Grand Dictator—W. W. Simons of Charleston.

Grand Vice Dictator—P. R. McCully of Anderson.

Grand Assistant Dictator—W. H. Lockwood of Beaufort.

Grand Chaplain—N. N. Burton of Batesburg.

Grand Guide—J. W. Moore of Hampton.

Grand Reporter—G. W. Holland of Newberry.

Grand Treasurer—J. T. Robertson of Abbeville.

Grand Guardian—N. W. Trump of Columbia.

Grand Sentinel—J. L. Addison of Edgefield.

Grand Trustees—J. A. Henneman, Spartanburg; Harry Ryttenberg, Sumter; and Fred H. London of Rock Hill.

Supreme Representative for two years, W. W. Simons of Charleston; alternate, M. L. Bonham, Jr., of Columbia.

The Supreme Lodge will meet on the second Tuesday in May next at Indianapolis, Ind., and besides Representative-elect Simons, W. R. Deigar of Sumter, who holds over from last year, will attend.

A proposition was made to change the time of meeting of the Grand Lodge from April to September, and those favoring the idea vigorously supported it. The Grand Lodge however voted down the proposition by a large majority.

On motion of Mr. Moses of Sumter, a resolution of thanks to the Columbia Lodge, for their hospitable entertainment, was adopted, and later similar resolutions, thanking the railroads and hotels for courtesies extended, were also adopted.

The installation of the officers elect then followed.

It was decided that at the next session the Grand Trustees, the committee on credentials, mileage and per diem, the Past Grand Dictator, and the Grand Assistant and Grand Vice Dictator, should constitute the committee of distribution.

The Grand Dictator then announced the following standing committees: Laws and Supervision—J. C. Sheppard of Edgefield, E. Bacon of Spartanburg and M. B. McSweeney of Hampton. Finance—M. A. Carlisle of Newberry, B. M. Leiby of Charleston and L. N. Zealy of Columbia.

After the transaction of some further routine business the Grand Lodge adjourned, to meet on the third Wednesday of April, 1899, at Columbia, this city having been determined on as the permanent place of meeting at the session at Beaufort last year.

KILLED HIM AFTER 25 YEARS.

A Bullet Near a Veteran's Heart Does the Work It Was Intended to Do.

PHILADELPHIA, April 14.—Anton Werck was a soldier in the late war. He was shot in the breast three times, but two of the bullets were extracted and the wound over the other healed, and although the man was ill, it was never thought that the little piece of lead was bound in the long run to kill him.

Werck applied for a pension, and his injuries were of such a nature that he was given $12 a month by the government as a pension for his ill. He managed to do a little odd work here and there, but six years ago he lost an arm. He lived with his wife at No. 156 Walnut street, Manayunk, and a short time ago celebrated his seventy-second birthday. On the morning of March 25 he was found dead at the foot of a flight of stairs in his home. There were apparently no injuries on the body other than would naturally have been received in a fall from such a height, and it was thought he had tripped at the head of the stairs, fallen violently to the bottom and died from the shock.

A short time after her husband was buried a pension claim agent, it is said, suggested to Mrs. Werck that it was possible her husband's death had been caused by his old wound. At any rate, the idea that such might be the case took possession of the woman's mind. She thought it over constantly, and as she was not well off and could not apply for a pension if her husband had died from an accidental fall, she determined to have the matter fully investigated.

The last sleep of the old man was disturbed, the body was taken up, and last Friday Dr. Fornad, the Coroner's physician, made a post mortem examination. The result was given out at the Coroner's office yesterday. The old scar was found, the body opened and the course taken by the bullet traced until the little piece was found imbedded in the tissues close to the heart, so close that the workings of the organ of life were sadly interfered with. The heart had gone on, though at a disadvantage, all these years, and finally were itself out sooner than it otherwise would, and the man, it is claimed, dropped dead from heart disease from the head of the stairs, and it was only a lifeless body that rolled to the bottom. It is now probable that Mrs. Werck will apply for a widow's pension.

Death of a Prominent Virginian.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 16.—Judge C. E. Stuart of the Corporation Court of this city died to-day, after a protracted illness. He was Speaker of the House of Delegates two terms.

ALL ABOUT THE STATE.

—S. E. Smith, colored, who was the so-called Republican candidate for Congress in the Second District last fall, has been reappointed mail agent on the Port Royal Railroad, from which position he was ousted four years ago. Smith supplants M. C. Jones.

—Farmer Ben Tillman of Edgefield is a Moses who believes in milk and meat. From twenty half Jersey cows he gathers seventy-five pounds of butter a week, for which he readily gets thirty-five cents a pound. He also sells annually in Charleston and Augusta six or eight thousand pounds of home cured hams at prices ranging up to fifteen cents.

—Sam Nix, colored, ploughed up last week on his farm four miles from Barnwell, on the Blackville road, an immense Indian stone pipe. The height of the bowl was four and its circumference ten inches. The stem was nearly five inches long. It weighed two or three pounds and would hold a quarter of a pound of tobacco. Several distinct and rude carvings were on the surface. It probably did service at many council fires in aboriginal days.

—In the Aiken court, last week, the trial of John Harden for the killing of his uncle, Elbert Harden, in June, 1873, resulted in a verdict of not guilty. The nephew and uncle were near neighbors. On the day of the killing Elbert went to John's house and began a quarrel with him. As Elbert went away John shot him in the back, and as he was lying helpless crushed his skull with the gun. John left the country and remained until he was arrested in Florida a few months ago.

—Miss Jane Blackman of Lancaster County, a young girl just blooming into beautiful womanhood, was so seriously burned one day last week, by her clothes catching fire, that but little if any hopes are entertained of her recovery. She was with her stepfather in the new grounds where brush-heaps were being burned, when her clothes caught fire, and before the flames could be extinguished, fanned by the brisk wind blowing at the time, her person was blistered from foot to head. Her physician considers her condition hopeless.

—The new Town Council of Edgefield is confronted with a serious problem, viz: the levying of a tax to pay a judgment in favor of Moore & Simnot, holders of certain bonds issued by the town of Edgefield to aid in the construction of the Edgefield branch railroad, now known as the Cumberland Gap. The amount involved is $2,900. To pay this in one installment will require a levy of 20 mills on the dollar, exclusive of the regular State and County taxes, which amount to 14 mills, and the Chronicle says: there are scarcely a half dozen families in that municipality able to pay it.

—In Newberry County, last Tuesday, John and James McCarty went to the plantation of T. W. Abrams to see a negro, Nathan Epps, who was under contract with them for this year and had left, to get him to return. During the interview the negro made an assault on James McCarty, who was on his horse, with an axe, cutting his saddle and horse, whereupon Mr. McCarty drew his pistol and shot the negro in the leg. Alf Epps, the father of Nathan, came to the rescue and drew a hoe on John McCarty, and he also received a wound in the leg. The negroes are not seriously hurt, although the physician has been unable to get the balls.

EARLY CONNECTICUT LAWS.

Curiosities of a Code That Was in Force for a Hundred Years.

NEW HAVEN, April 15.—The New Haven men who endeavored to have the Legislature prescribe by law the weight of bread made an unconscious effort to revive some of the early laws of the colony. In the code of laws ordered printed by the General Court at New Haven, in October, 1665, it was ordered that each baker have a distinctive mark for his bread, and the weight of the loaves was defined. There is only one copy of these laws now in Connecticut. That is in the State Library, and nineteen times its weight in gold was paid for it. The code remained in force a hundred years.

These early laws were founded on Scripture, and the little volume contains many references to the Bible. Death was the penalty for witchcraft, worship of false gods, blasphemy, bestiality, adultery, treason, Sabbath breaking when done in a willful spirit, and the striking of a parent unless provoked could be given of neglect in training the offending child. A stubborn or rebellious son over the age of 16 years should be put to death when efforts at reformation failed. For the first offense at burglary the right hand should be branded with the letter B, for the second the left hand should be branded and the culprit whipped, and the third offense was punishable by death. For burglary on Sunday there were additional punishments of the pillory and the wearing of the halter. Restitution was demanded, and the convicted person being unable to give back the stolen property or an equivalent, he was sold as a servant to work out the value of the goods.

Education of children and attendance at church were insured by rigorous penalties for negligence, and falsehood and the spreading of malicious stories were considered serious crimes. Unmarried persons could board only in licensed boarding houses, and the keepers of the boarding houses were held responsible for the conduct of their boarders. The bans of marriage had to be announced three times in public meetings, or the engagement posted for fourteen days on a sign post at the meeting-house door.

EVERYBODY WANTS A PENSION.

Applications Being Received by Corporal Tanner at the Rate of Eleven Thousand a Day.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Commissioner Tanner of the Pension Bureau received during the first week in the present month 60,871 letters and other pieces of mail matter pertaining to the business of his office, and last week he received 69,000 pieces. The Commissioner desires this fact made public, as a general explanation of delays in answering correspondence from Grand Army men and others having personal interest in pension cases now pending in the office. He bespeaks the indulgence of correspondents until the present burden of work shall have been disposed of. The Commissioner is making every effort in his power to expedite the work of his office and to bring it up to date at the earliest possible day.

Assistant Medical Referee Philip H. Barton of the Pension Office has been removed. Barton was an appointee of the last administration. Theodore Smith of New York, Special Examiner in the Pension Office, who resigned last summer, has been reinstated.

New Bank Building at Anderson.

ANDERSON, April 18.—[Special to The Register.]—Anderson is to have another beautiful structure on the public square. The Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Anderson have decided to build, and have purchased a lot from Capt. P. K. McCully. Work will begin by the 1st of August.
